Was great for 9 generations until the game would not offer a spouse until I was 51, and then they couldn't conceive. The game is over if you don't have any children to pass on to.

All the hours I spent getting to 98% completed on "trophies" was wiped out.

I wish I had never played this game.. Terrible game, I played thru 5 minutes of the game. All I could possibly stand. If you are a fan of the old games in the series then stay away from this POS. While at first glance this might appear to be a Jake or Logan Paul simulator, "Dab on 'em Haterz is essentially a test of your reflexes and how quickly you process information. You need to make the right choices and make them quickly or the game is more or less over in a minute or two.

In the short time I've played I already feel I've seen everything I'm going to see. Its only a couple of bucks though so I wasn't expecting much more.

Only real criticisms would be to maybe slow it down a bit, though without the short times between decisions I see this being beaten very easily.

The speed at which the game goes guarantees you wont be able to take everything in. Hell, if you take the time to read all the text on the first screen you already fail. In the second phase you have to have your eyes glued solely to the text on the left hand side and quickly identify what is a good comment and what is a bad comment (which you "DAB" on).

Successfully allocating the comments as good or bad allows you to pay rent for one more week. I myself last 4 weeks before getting "Dabbed" on and having to "Bite it"

I'd give it a 5 out of 10 for what it is. Mildly amusing for the (very) short time it lasts.

. I love it so far. Standout feature is the mechanics. It's a side scroller with the normal jump mechanic, but you get limited flight in the form of 4 double jumps. You can also glide for horizontal range in addition to vertical jumps. Soon after starting, you get the ability to move certain objects around with the mouse; this is both a means of navigation and, depending on the situation, your weapon.

The graphics are smooth and pretty; in 2010 we had just come out of the Beige Age, so game makers were putting color into their games again.

All in all, very much recommended.. I'm dissappointed in steam for this being a game.

Update: The game somehow slowed down my pc. This game is plagued with bugs and glitches that results in crashes every so often. Apart from that, the concept of the game is awesome. I love how the devs combined RTS with arcade style battles.

Would definitely give it a positive rating if not for the crashes that made this game unplayable.. This is a copy of my review for the original game. Most of my time is going into that one. *For now.

There are few things new buyers should be aware of:

1. This game is not in any shape or form similar to Transport Tycoon. You won't be optimizing routes, building long-lasting production chains, planning complex routes for dozens upon dozens vehicles, etc. etc. Instead you will be managing up to 15 not-so-smart trucks making sure they can fulfill demands of each and every town you find. Which can get a bit hectic.

2. This game is for patient people. You probably won't experience the real difficulty it can throw at you for a while (and by that I mean many hours of preparation and unlocking every tool the game can offer you)
3. Many reviews mention "having to overcome UI", well, it got much better. And it keeps improving. In all honesty, being late to the party, I haven't had much trouble with figuring it out.
4. This is not an achievement spam game. Each and any of the achievements require work. Sure, some are extremely easy, but some others are very hard.
As for the game itself, it's the most addicting purchase I made in years. After playing for few hours I just bought everything that was available at the moment, because I knew I'll play it eventually. It might not be for everyone, probably far from it, but it's a great game if you can see its charm.. Easy, charming, sparkling, fun - but is was more fun on mobile. 5/10. Been waiting 4ver for this!!!
This game is brilliant, thumb up if you feel just like CaslteVania :)
Gonna stick with this for a long time.
Keep it up, HikerGames !

Great game, was positively surprised.

Good challenge. Good soundtrack. Not very extensive story though.

All in all a great game. The idea of a game where you try to sell items door to door struck me as more than a little odd. I took the chance on it, as I was looking to spend a small amount on a time-filler game when I don't want to play something more time consuming. I'm glad I took the chance on it. Much more fun than I'd thought it'd be. Nice sense of humour to the game, and one that I'll play time and again whenever I have a few spare minutes. At this price, it's worth buying!. This game makes it impossible to progress without paying tons of money. they say "Free to play" but really it isn't at all.. I've enjoyed what I played of this game, an adventure puzzler with an RPG vibe, and later on there is supposed to be combat and dungeon exploration as well. The art and story are charming with a sense of humor that made me smile.

While the quality is nice, the game has a "miniature" feel, as if it is a mini game rather than a full game. For this reason, in my opinion the game is too expensive at full price, so I will wait for a sale.. A game for when bullets from bullets from bullets from hammers from swords just isn't enough.
